PRESS RELEASE

ARCH TO UNVEIL IMPORTANT CONTRACTOR DATABASE TO MEMBERS ARCH Demo Meeting Feb. 27

Reston, Virginia, February 13: After an intensive effort by Board and Committee Members, the Alliance of Reston Clusters and Homeowners (ARCH) will unveil its efforts to build a database of contractors with whom ARCH individual and/or Cluster and Condo Members have an experience of positive performance. At a meeting on 27 February, at 7:00 PM, at Hidden Creek Country Club, the database developer will demonstrate the functionality of the database and its ease of use to ARCH Members.

Brian Olivia, ARCH Vice President and Procurement Committee Chair, and Diane Royal—ARCH Board Member and website developer-- guided the database developers in their work. Both stated that they are so very proud of the manner in which the developers took ARCH's desires defined in their Statement of Work and translated those desires into what will prove to be an outstanding working tool for ARCH Members.

The database has been designed to provide information using familiar drop down menus about reputable contractors who provide the types of services ARCH Members so often require in maintaining their individual properties or Cluster/Condo Common Areas ranging from roofing to paving, landscaping, tree care, fencing/decks, painting and a myriad other regularly required services.

Jerry Volloy, ARCH President, indicated that the beauty of the database—accessed by Members at the ARCH website via Member password—is in the simplicity of its use, and the opportunity for Members to input and obtain important information for and from other Members about vendors that have demonstrated quality service in their particular specialty.” Volloy went on to say that ARCH Members and others who might be interested in finding out more about its database efforts or ARCH Membership are invited to attend the 27 February meeting.

About the Alliance of Reston Clusters and Homeowners:

ARCH is a non-profit corporation chartered to serve as a practical resource to homeowner associations in their day-to-day management. It also works to ensure that its Members are aware of relevant community issues and are able to effectively participate in community dialogue and decision-making. Membership is open to all homeowner associations, single-family homeowners who have organized or are interested in organizing their neighborhoods, and any individual resident who is not part of such an association or group that has joined ARCH. Information can be found at www.restonarch.org, including the extensive research and analysis ARCH has done on the governing documents.
